ABOUT THE ISD CONFERENCE

The ISD Conference has a long tradition in hosting scientists and practitioners where they exchange ideas, experiences and knowledge in the field of Information Systems Development. During the last 26 years the conference took place in many countries, e.g. ISD1994 - Bled, Slovenia; ISD1999 - Boise, Idaho, USA, ISD2001 - London, UK; ISD2003 - Melbourne, Australia; ISD2005 - Karlstad, Sweden; ISD2007 - Galway, Ireland; ISD2009 - Nanchang, China; ISD2010 - Prague, Czech Republic; ISD2013 - Seville, Spain. For many years the conference has held an A rank in the well-known CORE Conference Rankings report (see report for ISD here).

The ISD conference has strong connections within the international information systems community and is now an Affiliated Conference of the Association for Information Systems (AIS).

ISD2014 CONFERENCE THEME

Transforming Organisations and Society through Information Systems

New trends in developing information systems emphasize organizational aspects of their development and social aspects of the final product. The influence of information systems and technologies on organizational structures, processes and people is paralleled by the impact of new organizational structures and social dynamics on information systems development, functionality and management. The ISD2014 Conference focuses on these mutual influences in order to promote research into methodological issues and ways in which information systems designers are transforming organizations and society.

We therefore kindly invite you to share your knowledge and experience by submitting a paper to the 23rd ISD conference and make your contribution to this upcoming event.

Looking forward to seeing you in Varazdin!
